Battle Scenes Thrilling

The battle scenes in "The Clansman" will never be excelled. The night attack before Petersburg is a wonderful piece of photography which gives the picture a spectacular touch that is thrilling.

Settings Are Remarkable

The settings are remarkable. The action of the drama or tragedy, which ever one cares to call it, is in Piedmont, S. C. At once the audience is led in to that beautiful atmosphere which prevailed before the war.

The "Little Colonel" is done by Henry Walthall.

Henry Walthall. His role is a difficult one, but he does it in a manner that won for him the admiration of last night's big audience.

S. A. WHITE PLANS ATTRACTIVE PARK

Will Beautify Grounds About His Residence at Tenth and Chestnut With Additional Features, to Include a Beautiful Pergola of Pure White Artificial Stone

A most attractive and artistic bit of garden decoration is being planned by S. A. White on the lot adjoining his handsome residence at the corner of Tenth and Chestnut streets.

The plans as conceived by Mr. White are being worked out in complete detail by Architect W. P. Lamar. The central portion of the lot will be given over to a beautiful pergola.

Surrounding the lot on two sides will be an artistic wall of cinder brick, six feet in height. Over the wall will be grown climbing white roses, and over the white pergola will be trained red climbers, which will make a most attractive color effect.

Taken in connection with his already extensive and beautiful parking improvements around the residence, this new improvement will add distinctively to the appearance of the premises.

VAUDEVILLE STARS COME WEDNESDAY

Loring to Play the Big Show That Is on the Orpheum Circuit This Week in Los Angeles—Managers See the Bill and Are at Once to Sign Contract

Manager Castleman and Treasurer Twogood, of the Loring theatre, were in Los Angeles this week and attended the Orpheum theatre, where "The Red Heads" are on in a big musical skit, with a high class vaudeville bill.

Before leaving the theatre they were informed that this same show is playing a week of one night stands in the South before going to San Francisco, and once the two theatrical men got busy and before leaving the Ango City they had to their possession a contract which brings this great aggregation of stars to this city next Wednesday night.

GENEVA, Dec. 3.—By mail to New York)—A stranded American tourist in Switzerland nearly brought about the death of a friend living in Germany by sending the following telegram: "Kale all gone. Wire thirty beans." The German censor "took it to mean that some German town, Kiel probably, had been attacked and wiped out.

PARIS.—(By mail to New York)—When the Germans entered Conde sur Escourt, the Paris papers, they tried to pull down the statue erected there to the memory of the popular French general, Bonnaire de Saint Marie. Fifty men with ropes tugged at the monument, but were unable to budge it.

NISH.—(By mail to New York)—Servia boasts the youngest non-commissioned officer in the ranks of Europe's warring armies. This is Dagobud Jelitich, a 12 year old school boy, who has just been promoted corporal. The lad took the field to avenge his father, who was killed at the battle of Kumanovo. Owing to his youth he was unable to join the regular army, but he took service with a group of comitadjis, and from the first displayed extraordinary bravery.

COPENHAGEN.—(By mail to New York)—The Danish police are endeavoring to track down a particularly inhuman genius, who profiting by the paralyzed postal service, has been extracting from German and Russian refugees money sent by their friends and relatives. The swindler, who has an accomplice, managed to learn the methods of assisting the refugees, and by forging the name of a Russian official, who was sent to Copenhagen to look after them, he has induced financial suffering and misery on scores of wretched victims of the war. The fraud was only discovered when the Russian officials began to receive letters from different persons informing him that money had already been sent.
